EXTRAXI Project Team completes new greenfield concrete plant for a construction materials client in South-East Queensland.

New Concrete Plant

EXTRAXI was engaged to undertake the project management and development works for a new 60m³/hr concrete batch plant for a client in South-east Queensland.

The scope included working with the planning consultant for the development approval application, drafting site layout and infrastructure plans, co-ordinating final design works, managing earthworks, civil works, electrical/PLC works, design and construction of the water treatment system, aggregate storage bins, site hard-standing and drainage, and final landscaping.

The plant was acquired and container shipped from the USA and installed on-site using the clients and local work-crews.

With plenty of parking for employee vehicles and trucks, a new double storey office and amenities building was also part of the client brief and was constructed using tilt-up concrete panels.

Final concrete pavement works were completed using mix from the new plant as part of the commissioning and production trials.
